Recording Date: 11 August 2018

Say What?!!?!

Alondo: Welcome to BeBitwise the only Podcast where we dress as goats and go to petting zoos to get free massages. This is Alondo, aka the head nerd at Be Bitwise,

(Cue sappy music)

Alondo: This is very special episode of Be Bitwise. This week, we're gonna open our hearts and get real personal with you, our listening public…

(Cue party music)

Alondo: LOL - just kidding! This week, we are gonna recap our best moments from the past 10 episodes (which includes our introductory episode). We've had some great times and created some pretty hilarious inside jokes.

For those of you that started tuning in late, this show will get you all caught up on the funniest moments, so far.

However, the biggest purpose of this episode is that we are running a contest. Being a technology podcast, we're giving away a techy prize. You've heard about 'em and always wanted to have one in your home - we're giving away a new car, I mean a Nest Learning Thermostat!

That's right! These devices go for over $200 and the savings they'll provide your home will amaze you. I know we haven't done our episode on home automation, yet, but I'll briefly tell you that these devices replace your boring old dumb thermostat and automatically adjust the temperature. It can create a comfortable environment the moment you arrive home, save energy while you are away, and drastically improves the climate in your home. Plus it has a pretty cool looking techy interface.

So, what do you have to do to win? Well, the steps are listed in this episode's Show Notes on www.bebitwise.com (Episode 10 - The Best Parts). Follow the directions, and you'll be well on your way to winning this amazing device.

Share this contest with any friends or families that you think might be interested in this contest. Only 1 entry per person, and the contest will close August 26, giving you all exactly two weeks to win this amazing prize.

As an additional bonus, if we get more than 150 entries, a second prize with a $100 value will be added and given to the runner up. So tell your friends and family to join in the fun!

Good luck!!!
